dti™ Conflict Free Minerals Policy

dti™ takes seriously the global concern that some minerals mined from sources within the conflict region that benefit armed groups may be making their way into the general industry supply chain and that profits from this could potentially contribute to human rights violations.

dti™ is committed to ensuring that working conditions in its operations and in its supply chains are safe, that all workers are treated with respect and dignity and that business operations are environmentally responsible and conducted ethically.

Due to the complexities of the mining process and because dti™ does not purchase conflict minerals from smelters or mines, it must rely on sourcing information provided by our suppliers. dti™ is committed to socially responsible sourcing and supports the Tronie Foundation and the humanitarian goals of the Dodd-Frank Act and the development of regulations and processes for suppliers to determine whether materials within their supply chain are sourced from the conflict region.

To that end, we are working to ensure that the mining of the minerals that end up in our products do not contribute to human rights violations in the conflict region.
